SELECTMEN'S REPORT

To the Inhabitants of Dighton:

According to the State Census taken this year the population is 3,208, a gain of 634 since 1920.

It is gratifying that each year our town valuation is increased by business and building activities.

The Department of Public Works Division of Highways have laid out and built a cement highway from the residence of Howard C. Briggs on Somerset Avenue southerly branching on to private land at the Simmons Bros. farm, running west of the N. Y., N. H. and Hartford Railroad, crossing Main and Hart Streets to the Somerset boundary line extending therefrom in a direct line to the Fall River Bridge.

The Department joined with the town in the construction of a bituminous macadam section of Center Street from the overhead Railroad Bridge to the Taunton River. Eventually this line will become a through route between Providence, R. I., New Bedford and the Cape when about two miles of improved road is built in Dighton and about the same amount in Freetown and Berkley.

They also joined the town in improving a short section of Wellington Street, easterly from the Rehoboth boundary line.

A liberal sum has been spent for general repairs and for oiling the streets.

MOTOR BUSES

The Board of Selectmen have had four applications by as many companies for licenses to operate motor busses on our streets. Hearings were held and three licenses were granted with rules, regulations and orders governing their operation as required by the General Laws.

One company the New England Transportation Co. met the requirements of the General Laws and filed a bond for $30,000 to protect passengers in case of accident.

Any company or person making a business of carrying passengers for hire is a Common Carrier and is responsible for their safety and must pay the damages in case of accident if they have the financial ability, otherwise passengers are unprotected. The attention of the public is called to following provisions of the General Laws.

COMMON CARRIERS OF PASSENGERS BY MOTOR VEHICLE CHAPTER 159, SECTION 45.

Section 45. No person shall, in any city or town, operate any motor vehicle upon any public way, for the carriage of passengers for hire, in such a manner as to afford a means of transportation similar to that afforded by a railway company, by indiscriminately receiving and discharging passengers along the route on which the vehicle is operated or may be running, or for transporting passengers for hire as a business between fixed and regular termini, without first obtaining a license therefor from the city council of such city or the selectmen of such town, in this and the two following sections called the licensing authority. Any such license issued in a city shall be subject to the approval of the mayor and shall not be valid unless such approval has been endorsed thereon in writing. Any person, receiving a license under this section and operating thereunder, is hereby declared to be a common carrier and shall, in respect to the operation of such a vehicle, be subject to such orders, rules or regulations as shall be adopted by the licensing authority under the following section.

Section 46. No license shall be granted under the preceding section until orders, rules or regulations shall have been adopted by the licensing authority in the town where the vehicle is to be operated, and any such authority may make such orders, rules or regulations. No such motor vehicle shall be operated as aforesaid until the licensee of the vehicle, in addition to complying with all rules, orders and regulations of the licensing authority, shall have deposited with the treasurer of the town security by bond or otherwise, running to the town treasurer and approved by him and by the licensing authority, in such sum as the licensing authority may reasonably require, conditioned to pay any final judgment obtained against the principle named in the bond for any injury to person or property or damage for causing the death of any person by reason of any negligent or unlawful act on the part of the principle named in said bond, his or its agents, employees or drivers, in the use of operation of any such vehicle. Any person so injured or damaged, or his executor or administrator, or the executor or administrator of any person whose death was so caused, may enforce payment of such judgment by suit on said bond in the name of the town treasurer. Such a bond shall be furnished in each town where said motor vehicle is licensed to operate, and shall, in each instance, be in accordance with the rules, orders and regulations of the licensing authority in such town.

Section 49. Whoever violates any order, rule or regulation adopted or established under Sections 45 to 48 inclusive or violates any provision of any said sections, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the House of Correction for not more than two months, or both.

The General Laws wisely provides for the protection of passengers by requiring Common Carriers to be bonded. The Common Carrier is responsible for the safe carriage of the passengers including school children. This subject is ably explained by Chief Justice Rugg in 144 and 250 Mass. reports pages 115-116-117.

POLICE

The increase in the expense of the Police Department has been necessary on account of the increase in the use of motor vehicles for business and pleasure and their reckless operation.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

The Fire Department is to be commended for the very efficient accomplishments with the present supply of apparatus for fighting fires.

We trust the town will make an addition by purchase of a power pump and hose.

The nearness of river and brooks with a few fire wells in the business and residential sections of the Town would furnish the needed supply of water.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES S. CHASE	}	Selectmen of Dighton

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Committee of the Town of Dighton:

I have the honor of submitting my second annual report as your Superintendent of Schools.

The characteristic of present education is transition from the old to the newer types of school work. Parents and the general public are well aware that the schools are not doing the things that used to be done and with which they are accustomed. They do not know what the newer methods mean. In order that parents and citizens of the Town may understand what the various changes that they observe really mean and why they are introduced, I shall try briefly to explain the modern viewpoint and the measures growing out of it.

The basal feature of the newer methods is their departure from tradition. The fact that a thing has been done, or is generally being done, is not considered to justify a school practice. In recent years sociology has become a real and practical science. Social and individual needs and possibilities of progress have been studied and the new education seeks to make these needs and possibilities the aim of school work. The best simple definition of the general aim of education that I am acquainted with is,—first, to enable the individual to do better than he otherwise would those things that he must or would do anyway; and second, to enable the individual to do better and more worth-while things than he otherwise would be able to do.

This general aim re-stated in specific terms furnished the definite objective of education. These are obtained by the process of observing what people actually do and determining which things are most worth while and which ways of doing them are most efficient. The central idea of modern education is a procedure based upon an actual analysis of real life. The specific aims are variously stated. One statement representative of modern thought gives the specific aim of school work as follows:—Effective social inter-communication, maintenance of physical efficiency, efficient citizenship, appropriate general social contacts and relationship, worthwhile use of leisure, general mental efficiency, proper religious attitudes and activities, appropriate participation in family responsibilities, and satisfactory engagement in both occupational and unspecialized activities.

The next step in modern method is a further analysis of such aims as the ones just stated into the requisite knowledges, attitudes, habits, abilities, skills, interests, etc., that their attainment implies. Any list so derived is certain to be a lengthy one containing many hundred detailed items. Obviously no such list need be given here. To illustrate however the general process I will give under each of the headings stated above a few sample items which would in a complete list be given a further and yet more detailed subdivision.

Efficient social inter-communication clearly involves such abilities as the following;—Ability to use and understand language, both spoken and written; ability to organize and express one's thoughts; and ability to use reference material to find facts and authoritative opinion regarding matters of interest.

Maintenance of physical efficiency involves such items as, —knowledge of the value of and the means of obtaining proper diet, sufficient fresh air and exercise, appropriate care of the body; all possible freedom from contagion and preventable accidents; proper lay procedure; and the efficient utilization of professional service in the event of disease.

Efficient citizenship involves a sympathetic understanding of the functions of civic institutions; their necessity; their benefits to the individual; the duties and privileges of individual citizenship; also interest in and the desire to participate in the work of civic progress.

Appropriate general social contacts and relationships imply ability to talk and act in sympathetic, tactful, and human ways, that are most effective in promoting agreeable and beneficial relationships among associates.

Worthwhile use of leisure, which is a topic the great importance of which is just becoming realized, involves the ability of the adult to play and also the possession of real recreational interests upon the part of adults. Probably no feature of newer school practice is so little understood and so regularly misunderstood as the present emphasis upon play in school. It has become well established that after the age of fourteen individuals rapidly lose their ability to play and with it the natural means of healthy growth and maintained vitality. An examination of the use of spare time by typical adults shows that mere idleness without special purpose or interest is the typical situation. For lack of anything to do people simply sit or walk around merely as a change from sitting. People go to places of organized amusement, not because of interest in them, but merely to go somewhere. One of the real contributions of present school methods to future welfare is that they will, if successful, provide adults with wholesome and beneficial recreational interests.

General mental efficiency involves two elements. Knowledge and the ability to perform the mental activities demanded by efficient behaviour of any sort.

Proper religious attitudes and activities while not primarily a public school responsibility, is nevertheless a matter that cannot be so completely ignored as it has been in the past. The essential brotherhood of man is an established fact. Religious ideals are admittedly of value. These are facts that cannot be disregarded in any complete system of general education. It is well within the province of the school to develop abilities, habits and disposition, to follow the leadership of the highest thought of moral leaders.

Appropriate participation in family responsibilities starts with the appreciation of the child as a participating member of the family group. He is taught to know his part in the life of the family and to become able to do it. Knowledge of and ability to perform the adult responsibilities of family life are built upon this foundation.

Satisfactory engagement in occupational activities so far as general education is concerned, has as its central idea vocational guidance. Appropriate guidance both educational and vocational is, in fact, the fundamental necessity that makes the junior high school an essential element of any adequate educational system. It has always been known that individuals differ greatly in ability and aptitude, both general and special, and also that various occupations vary greatly in their demands upon individuals. Taking both of these factors into consideration the modern school attempts to guide each pupil so far as possible into what is the one best job for him. Educational guidance is the application of the same principle to the work of the school itself. It is an attempt to guide the pupil so that he will take those subjects or courses that are, for him, most profitable. Fitting instruction to individual needs, provision for individual progress, and the elimination of wasted time and effort upon subjects for which the particular individual has neither need nor ability, and distinctive features of present school practice.

Unspecialized practical activities involve the ability to design, make, and repair, useful or pleasure yielding articles. Such items as the ability to make ordinary household repairs, or to build a radio set, for boys; and sewing, trimming hats, and candy making, for girls; indicate the general nature of this field.

Of the words, knowledge, habit, skill, and ability,—knowledge is readily understood. The other words have a somewhat technical significance and are not, as might appear, synonymous terms. Habit involves a tendency to do automatically the same thing under the same circumstances. It does not involve necessarily skill or ability. It is possible to habitually blunder or bungle the doing of something. Ability involves doing a thing in accordance with some ideal or standard. Every person for instance should have the ability to read with ease, rapidity, and comprehension. In this case the thing done is to read and the ideals or standards involved are ease, rapidity and comprehension. Skill involves dexterity, as the result both of practice and of self-controlled and directed efforts.

The final step in modern school procedure is to determine what activities in school will result in the habits, attitudes, abilities, skills, dispositions, knowledges, etc., required. The central idea of modern methods is learning through doing. Teaching is no longer regarded as a matter of assigning subject matter or telling facts. Pupils are expected to be engaged in some activity which they consider to be as important for them as grown up activities are for adults. The work of teaching has become that of directing and aiding the purposeful activities of the children. Under these circumstances the old time recitation is rapidly passing into disuse. In its place a type of class work of real social value is becoming established. Under old conditions knowledge and ability profited no one but its possessor and their lack discommoded no one but the individual concerned. Under new conditions the result is a group accomplishment towards which each must do his part and every participant is dependent upon every other participant for the success of both his part and the final outcome. Under these circumstances school life is actually socialized and the individual learns co-operation by actually co-operating.

This general outline of modern method has been given to show what we are trying to do at the present time in the schools of the Town. These procedures are new. Their technique is as yet undeveloped. It must be remembered that present day teachers went to school themselves under old conditions, and except in a very limited way, have never seen modern methods in actual operation. Practically these things are goals toward which we are working in a way that is necessarily somewhat tentative and experimental. Departure from an older established order to establish a newer and better condition is bound to involve some mistakes. Before the transition is successfully completed a new viewpoint must be developed upon the part of the pupils as well as the teachers. Possibly we have overlooked too much this fact, and failure to realize our ends, is often due to an attempt to do things that the children do not understand and being naturally adverse to change, they consciously or unconsciously resist. Certainly children can not co-operate in an undertaking that they do not understand, and in the natural course of events their cooperation is likely to be proportioned to their acceptance of, and enthusiasm for, the ends proposed. One of the distinctive characteristics of the newer methods is that all work is regarded by the child as his work for the attainment of his own ends unless each child is working for results that he understands and definitely purposes to accomplish, the method of instruction employed is not in accord with the modern viewpoint, and no failure under these conditions can be charged against the newer methods because such methods are not in these cases being employed.

The most important change during the last year is the better school organization now in force. The Fish, Brick and Segreganset schools are now Primary Schools with but four grades attending them. The Williams school is the intermediate school for the western part of the town and has three grades. The Grammar schools at North Dighton and at South Dighton house the entire seventh and eighth grades of the town. This abolishes the all grades single teacher type of school and gives us a single town wide system of really graded schools. The beneficial results of this change are already evident and each year they will become increasingly apparent. The definite acceptance of the dental clinic as a regular school responsibility, our present complete compliance with the legal requirements regarding vaccination, and the successful introduction of the hot lunch at noon in both North Dighton and South Dighton are also important accomplishments of the year. Substantial progress has been made in providing the pupils with more adequate materials of instruction and, in the lower grades, school furniture adapted to modern methods of instruction. The growing interest of the teachers in Professional self-improvement is a matter that should be not only mentioned but also given substantial recognition.

The outstanding need of the schools is more room. At North Dighton eight grades and a special class, are at present crowded into seven rooms. Next year this can not be done. The Primary school can hold only grades one to three as at present the Grammar building can care only for grades five to eight. The fourth grade and the special class will be without a place to go next September. Two rooms are absolutely required, and in my opinion the best as well as the least expensive solution of the situation is the addition of two rooms to the North Dighton Primary building.

Below I give a list of town children attending High school and a table of membership for local schools.

In conclusion I wish to thank school officials, teachers, citizens and all with whom I have come in contact for the interest, consideration, and co-operation that have made the progress of the year possible. In this respect I wish to particularly mention the Dighton Parent teacher's Association. The Dental Clinic and the Hot Lunch are directly due to the efforts of this association. The town is fortunate in having an organization willing and able to carry out a successful program of constructive assistance to the Schools and I urge a hearty support of the Association in their helpful activities.

Superintendent of Schools.

REPORT OF SCHOOL COMMITTEE

To the Citizens of Dighton:

Having completed the year 1925 your Committee hereby submits its report.

There being a great congestion of pupils at the Fish, Flat Rock and Brick Schools this Committee, beginning last September, has been transporting the seventh and eighth grades to North Dighton. The fifth and sixth grades from the Fish are going to the Williams and the first, second and third grades from the Williams are going to the Brick. Broad Cove and Segreganset children above the fourth grade are being transported to Dighton. This transportation was let out to bids. Mr. Carl Gordon being awarded the trip from Fish to North Dighton and the noon trip to Taunton High School. Mr. John Ingham was awarded the trips from Broad Cove to Dighton and the morning trip to Taunton High School.

This transportation appears to be working out satisfactorily.

During the year chemical toilets have been installed at the Dighton Grammar School and a new boundary fence erected. The Brick School House has been shingled. Two new stoves have been installed in the rural schools. New furnaces have been placed in the Primary Building and a small auxiliary boiler in the Grammar Building at North Dighton.

Just a word about the increase in our estimated budget for 1926. The increase is due to three causes. Transporting children from rural schools, increase of pupils in High Schools and increase in our teaching staff.

REPORT OF ATTENDANCE OFFICER

Dighton, Mass., Jan. 5, 1926.

Edmond L. Hill, Supt. of Schools, Dighton, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I herewith submit my report for the year ending Dec. 31, 1925. I have made 164 visits to ascertain the cause of absences of children from school. Lack of co-operation of parents or guardian in nearly every case was found to be the cause. Wilful absences is very rare in this Town. I thank all connected with the schools for their cheerful co-operation to better school attendance.

Respectfully submitted,

HOWARD C. BRIGGS,

Attendance Officer.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT

To the School Committee of Dighton:

The usual routine examination of children was followed this year as previously. The majority of advised corrections were attended to, however, some after much urging—only a few parents refusing to co-operate.

The pre-school clinics held at South Dighton and North Dighton on June 16th., were instrumental in recognizing various defects so that corrections could be accomplished before the children entered school in September. At the South Dighton Clinic 28 were examined and at the North Dighton Clinic 22.

It often occurs that if a child is well enough to go through the first year with a good record of attendance and accomplishment, a certain pride is established, and there is an incentive for a repetition of the good record in following years. The pre-school clinic, therefor, is to be urged and supported, and it is hoped that the time may soon come when all parents will bring their children for examination, and that all defects are remedied before beginning the first year of school. It is merely a means of giving children an opportunity to make the most of their abilities, and therefor a credit to parents and the school system.

In an effort to protect against disease (smallpox), so far as is possible, each child has been vaccinated, except for a few children not considered good risks for such procedure, in which cases a certificate of exemption was furnished.

The school nurse, Miss Alice B. MacIntosh, has made 165 school-room visits and 408 home calls (as compared with 278 home calls of the preceding year). The increase in number of home calls is, for the most part, due to the great amount of work accomplished by the dental clinic, where 390 children have been treated (Jan.-Dec. 1925). In the same period of time the tonsil clinic had 36 operations

A clinic for the correction of defects of the eyes, fitting of glasses, etc., may be of equal importance to the dental and tonsil clinics. An optometrist has consented to give his time and part of equipment to such a clinic, but the expense encountered in furnishing the remaining necessary equipment seems to make such unlikely at present. A clinic of this sort would give each child an opportunity for a routine examination of the eyes and many mean the relief of many of the headaches of early life, as well as the early correction of many ocular defects, at a time when they are yet highly responsive to treatment.

Respectfully submitted,

H. S. MILLER, M. D.
